

APPENDIX 3: A CONCISE TIMELINE OF KORDI

YEAR	EVENT
- 51	Sihala of Kowi, at 17 years of age, overthrows the warlord, High Chief Sikon of Mase, the Binder, and liberates the settlement that is now the capital city. The strongholds held by his supporters fall shortly afterwards. The people relinquish clan ties and titles.
- 50	Archos Sihala divides the young nation of Kordi into four regions and gives them to Hathal Wason, Keelin Posa, Driscol Kewi, and Sorcha Lanton, along with the title of Ard Tiarna. She renames the capital city as Dantria and claims it as the seat of rule.
- 49	The Arlos Council, a small assembly comprised of Sihala's most trusted advisors, is established to oversee the proceedings of the government.
- 47	The Flaming Gate opens to the north of the Kordi's capital city, Dantria, allowing armies of the Prytanis, from the realm of Prytania, to invade the nearby area. The capital is besieged.
- 45	High Chief Aislinn of Wisinha and the river clans, pleads her people's case against the invaders. They are granted sanctuary within the capital city in exchange for their aid in it's protection. Aislinn is granted the title of Ard Tiarna. The Prytanis's attempts to take the capital cease.
-43	The Prytanis invasion, previously contained to the region north of the capital and the riverlands to the west, beings to spread. Attempts to organize a joint combative force with the kingdom of Ivrea against the Prytanis all fail.
- 38	A formal decree of evacuation is made, instructing each and every Kordi citizen, who has not already done so, to leave their homes and to seek shelter within the capital or nearest regional hold.
- 22	The Lanton stronghold falls. Most of the refugees escape and find shelter in the capital and Cavach lands. The capital city comes under direct siege and, days following its start, Archos Sihala gives birth to twins. The birth serves as a rallying cry, and the Prytanis are beaten back in a matter of weeks.
- 15	The Longhill Pact is signed, officially joining the Bari people with the Kordi to provide a combined force to combat the invasion. The Bari's horsemanship becomes a key factor in bolstering protection of the capital city, and ensuring the continued strength of the strongholds.
- 5	The final stronghold, Din Eidin in Wason, falls. Archos Sihala deploys a small group to negotiate sanctuary for her people in Ivrea, they are not admitted for an audience.
- 4	The Kordi Military is formally founded under the command of the twin warriors,

	Kete and Sane Lanton.
0	The leaders of the Kordi Nation seal off the Flaming Gate. Archos Sihala, sacrifices herself as the keystone of the sealing ritual, and dies. Etelin and Leon janSihala ascend as joint Archi.
1	The leaders of the war are rewarded and elevated into the new commanding rank and become the first Tigues of Éras. The Kordi Military is divided into eight separate units, named omadas. Under the command of the new tigues, the multiple omadas are dispatched to dispose of any remaining Prytanis, and aid in the rebuilding of the nation.
2	The newly cleared riverlands are given to House Wisinha. The Wisinha capital of Autun, as well as the cities of Emeria, Aiskil, Natas, and Suncroft, are founded.
3	A historic number of Kordi and Abkhat attend the Cavach Festival, marking the first since the conclusion of the war with significant participation from outsiders. Riders from Kordi are sent out across the known world, inviting war refugees to settle in the young cities. The first Cavach-born citizen of the Kordi Nation is granted land.
6	The city-state of Kotè Onè opens its doors to celebrate the annual Festival of New Beginnings, with the Kordi Archi in attendance. This event marks the first contact between the Kotè and the rest of the Known World since the start of the war.
